The Self-Guided Workbook

What is the Tourism Destination Area Self-Guided Workbook? And why should you use it?

Around the world tourism destinations are constantly working to distinguish themselves in the marketplace. The emphasis of Tourism Destination Areas is to enable your destination to operate at the highest level it can achieve. This Workbook focuses on providing a clear appraisal of your current tourism situation and as part of a process provides the forum to generate discussion for tourism potential in your destination.

The Workbook is organized in 10 sections to accompany the 10 critical elements identified for a Tourism Destination Area. The Workbook is designed to ask thought provoking questions which will allow your destination to realistically assess its current situation. In some cases, the answer may not be a simple 'yes'/'no' or the required information may not be readily available. The questions are guides to expand your thinking by being creative and consider everything your destination has to offer. Do not get discouraged if you can not answer all the questions. Be realistic, gauge where your destination stands. A Glossary of Terms is included to clarify key words.

We recognize that these are challenging questions which we hope will generate much discussion and mobilize your community to take future action. Consider the answers or in some cases blanks, to be measurements in which you can compare future tourism activity. Take this opportunity to capture on paper your current and potential tourism opportunities to visitors.

While this process requires a commitment of time and energy, your community's investment will be rewarded through the insights and directions gained. Upon completion of the Workbook, you should have a clear picture of your destination's current situation, and the directions and planning that might be pursued to further improve tourism success and advance your community as a Tourism Destination Area.

An 8-Step Guide

Eight steps to build on existing assets, and create a Tourism Destination Area.

Step 1 Establish Tourism Working Group.

This Group could include tourism/industry business leaders, community development associations, the Municipality, major attractions and other key partners. Five factors to consider when selecting Group members: knowledge of the destination area; commitment to tourism; ability to work in, and invest time on, a Group; overall reliability. Establishing your Group could involve expansion of an existing committee, or creation of a new committee under an existing organization. Note: you don't want to adversely affect the momentum of anyone already doing similar work.

Step 2 Review Critical Elements.

Check out the Tourism Destination Area critical elements to test your potential.

Step 3 Complete the Self-Guided Workbook.

Use the Workbook to evaluate your area's tourism activity levels, and establish benchmarks for measuring progress. Questions to consider in establishing benchmarks: Do you have an understanding of who visits your destination area, and why? Are there community leaders championing tourism-growth opportunities in your area? Does your community have in place plans and policies—and accessible, high-quality attractions and infrastructure—to grow tourism in a responsible and a sustainable manner? Use the results of the workbook to identify gaps, opportunities and competitive strengths.

Step 4 Set Common Ground & Common Goals.

How much more tourism business does your destination want? What is your area's tourism Vision, and what will your destination area look like in the year 2012? Are any efforts being duplicated? Ensure everyone involved in the TDA process shares a common goal.

Step 5 Build Partnerships.

Visitors don't see geographic or political boundaries; they see memorable locales and welcoming residents. All areas of the province are competing, together, in a global market-place. So: build partnerships that add value and depth to the TDA process; don't view a neighboring community or business as a competitor; reach out and ask for information and advice. (Department of Tourism, Culture and Heritage staff, for instance, will work with destinations to foster development and share resources.)

Step 6 Consult Others.

Throughout this process, you may need to gain some expertise in a particular field; this kit contains research resources and contact information.

Step 7 Measure Your Success.

As you initiate projects, improve visitor services, attract new investors and increase tourism revenues in your destination area, record these accomplishments. Build in tools to evaluate your progress and successes.

Step 8 Tell Your Story.

Share achievements made in the TDA process with local residents, businesses, funding partners, financial institutions, politicians, and all other partners.

Your Destination Area:
What are the goals your community would like to achieve by undertaking the Tourism Destination Area (TDA) process? (e.g. to increase tourism revenues, improve quality of life, etc.)
Identify the geographic boundaries covered by your destination. (If necessary, provide a map)

Notes or area map:

Section 1: Competitive Advantage

A tourism destination area must possess a competitive advantage over other destinations, something recognizable by visitors as a unique or appealing asset. This competitive edge affords the potential to draw new, significant visitor traffic to an area.

Now that you have completed the workbook, use the results to identify gaps, opportunities and competitive strengths.

Attraction a natural site, a man-made facility or an area which draws visitor traffic by providing an opportunity for individuals to participate in an experience, away from home. Local attractions are often based on a resource unique to that particular local area or community. For example: a natural resource (tides); cultural resource (theatre); historical resource (historic site) or a local industry (fishing).

Brand/Branding Is the sum of the experiences a person has with a product. It embodies the organizations/destinations promise to consistently deliver a specific set of features, benefits and services to the visitor. (Marketing Partners Inc., 2004)

Business Plan a comprehensive planning document which clearly describing the business developmental objective of an existing, or proposed, business. The plan addresses the What, Why, How and When of starting or expanding a business and demonstrates its viability/feasibility. Typically a business plan is a critical step in developing a successful business, and is required when applying for assistance or lending programs.

Carrying Capacity The maximum number of people who can use a site without an unacceptable alteration in the physical environment; a decline in the quality of experience gained by visitors; or adverse impact on the society, economy, and culture of the tourism area. ((Mathieson and Wall, 1982) Inskeep, 1991)

Channel of Distribution methods by which sellers reach potential buyers; travel agents, tour operators and tour wholesalers are part of this system within the tourism industry.

Competitive Advantage an advantage a business has over its competitors due to the quality or superiority of products or services; this advantage will persuade consumers to buy from that business, versus a competitor.

Cooperative Marketing the sharing of marketing costs for mutual benefit. Participants in a cooperative marketing initiative may include one or more travel product suppliers, a destination marketing organization, and travel-trade companies (i.e. tour operators or wholesalers). Usually all participating organizations share in the administration and/or cost of the marketing program.

Core Attraction the feature(s), facility(ies), and/or experiences which act as the primary motivators for most travel to the destination; the attractions with the most tourist visits in the destination. Core attractions can differ from season to season. (For example, there may be golf and skiing at a four seasons resort destination.) A core attraction can also be the product of a grouping of assets, all relating to a specific theme (e.g., forts and battlefields), or an experience enabled by a grouping (e.g., a resort experience supported by fishing, canoeing, dining and accommodations resources, a rural get-away experience supported by country road and trail, shopping, dining, and B&B resources. See: Supporting Attraction)

Demand generators activities available at a destination—attractions, things to do and see—that can, on their own, generate new visits from certain market segments particularly for special interest/special activity visits, and special-event visits. Demand generators include:

- a critical mass of unique and appealing attractions, events, cultures, entertainment and leisure activities;
- quality, appealing experiences of special interest to visitors, different from those available at home;
- scenery and natural areas for recreation, relaxation and enjoyment;
- programming and packages to appeal to special interests; and
- a sufficient level of high impact marketing activities to highly targeted market segments.

Demand supporter an activity that may not directly contribute to motivating a tourism visit, but may be of sufficient interest to motivate a market segment to include it in their agenda while at the destination. Demand supporters include:

- interesting and unique shopping, particularly for indigenous products and crafts;
- quality dining, including unique indigenous cuisine;
- quality accommodations of various types;
- easy access to information, reservations and visitor services;
- quality travel routes and signage;
- access to a well-developed tourism product distribution network, i.e., tour operators, packagers, travel agents;
- convenient, fast and affordable transportation to access the destination;
- trained, professional service and hospitable staff;
 and
- a safe environment.

Direct selling a method of securing business through direct contact with potential customers.

Direct marketing the use of marketing media that involves direct contact with individual consumers. This includes direct mail and email that is sent to targeted individuals.

Familiarization or "fam" tours (also called product knowledge tours) a complimentary or reduced-rate travel program for tour operators, travel agents or travel writers, designed to improve knowledge about a particular destination or package. The purpose in the first two cases is to encourage active marketing support; in the third it is to encourage the writing and publication of positive media stories about the destination, thereby raising its public profile.

Feasibility study a preliminary study to assess the potential of an opportunity, and to determine if it is financially viable. The study addresses issues including the project's benefits, costs, effectiveness, alternatives considered, analysis of alternative selection, environmental impacts, public opinions, and other factors.

Goals tourism goals are clear, concise statements that broadly outline what the community/organizations would like to see happen to tourism in the community. Goals should provide direction for the accomplishment of more specific, immediate, and related objectives.

Marketing Collateral print materials used for marketing (i.e. brochures, flyers, information sheets, etc.)

Market-driven strategy a strategy in which market demand directly impacts the product development process.

Market-readiness the state of preparedness of a tourism operation, or a destination as a whole, in meeting the expectations of its customers; refers to the entire spectrum of things affecting customer satisfaction: i.e. quality of facilities and services, range of services provided, information services, business policies and practices that affect the customer directly or indirectly, etc. This term can also refer to the state of preparedness in meeting needs and expectations of the travel trade.

Market Segment a group of consumers who respond in a similar way to a given set of marketing efforts. Different market segments can exist within a target market.

Niche Markets the tailoring of products to meet the needs and wants of narrowly defined market segments. An example would be avid birdwatchers who are prepared to travel for that activity.

Nova Scotia Tourism Partnership Council (TPC) an industry-led group that is responsible for directing the planning and delivery of provincial tourism marketing and product development programs. The partnership enables industry and government to share decisions, responsibilities and resources and means that the industry is directly involved in decision making regarding government tourism-related programs and spending.

Nova Scotia Visitor Exit Survey (VES) a survey that involves extensive interviews with visitors as they leave the province. It includes a wide range of data on visitor socio-demographic characteristics, activities, interests, spending etc.

Objectives specific outcomes that can be measured using agreed criteria (see Goals above). Tourism objectives are more specific than goals and represent the ends to which community action should be directed.

On-Site Spending spending by visitors. This usually includes: admission fees or tickets; retail purchases (gifts and souvenirs) and food and beverage purchases.

Package a mix of tourism attractions and/or activities and associated visitor services that is organized into a single product and sold as such.

Paid Media media advertising that is paid for rather than obtained free as publicity.

Primary research collection of new data that is not available from existing sources. Doing primary research on visitors to your community could involve doing surveys or interviews (see secondary research).

Product-Market Match matching the products and resources of an area with the markets that offer the best opportunity.

Receptive Tour Operator a person or company that specializes in particular destinations, and provides services at the destination to group travel organizers and tour operators. Some operators limit their services to the community and area in which they are based; others provide services to entire regions.

Regional Tourism Industry Associations (RTIA) Nova Scotia has a number of regional tourism associations; some incorporate just one county; others represent larger regions. These associations are membership-based and undertake a variety of activities and services on behalf of their members, including: developing regional publications, attending trade shows, various marketing activities, running travel information centers; advocacy on local issues.

Seasonal Capacity The ability to provide tourism products and services, throughout different seasons of the year, to meet tourism demand.

Secondary Research data and information that has already been collected or compiled by someone else (see primary research).

Stakeholder those individuals, groups, and parties that either affect, or who are affected by, an action of an organization or an event that may take place. As a general rule, stakeholders include all internal (community) and external (visitors) individuals.

Strategic Planning the process by which an organization envisions its future and develops strategies, goals, objectives and action plans to achieve that future.

Supporting Attraction secondary attractions with features or facilities that draw visitors to the destination area by augmenting the experience. Typically, these attractions are distinguished from core attractions by their smaller visitation numbers; however, supporting attractions can be primary travel motivators (i.e. core attractions) for some markets — typically niche markets.

SWOT Analysis (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities and Threats) a technique that provides scope for an organization/community to list all its strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats. This analysis should lead to identifying priority markets and opportunities/needs for growing and/or strengthening tourism in the area. Typically, strengths and weaknesses are internal attributes of the organization/community. Opportunities and threats are external, and tend to be much more difficult to control.

Target Market a clearly defined group of customers (i.e. specific individuals, sharing common needs or characteristics); because a high probability exists that members of this group will purchase your product or service, you have selected them as the targets for your focused marketing activities.

Tour Operator a business that designs, develops, markets and operates packaged travel and tourism products and tours. Tour operators sell through travel agents and/or directly to consumers.

Tourism the activities of persons traveling to, and staying in, places outside their usual environment for leisure, business and other purposes and staying for not more than one consecutive year. In Nova Scotia, this term includes:

- Persons from outside the province, whether they be on overnight or same-day trips to Nova Scotia;
- Nova Scotians who travel within the province, and stay away from home overnight or longer;
- Nova Scotians on same-day trips who travel more than 80k one way from their place of residence (excluding persons commuting to work).

Tourism Insights a monthly statistical report of tourism activity in Nova Scotia, published by the Department of Tourism, Culture and Heritage.

Tourism demand all visitors and travelers who meet the definition of tourists.

Tourism suppliers all businesses that provide facilities and services used by tourists; includes businesses that cater solely to tourists, (i.e. accommodations, car rental businesses) as well as those that cater to tourists markets in addition to resident markets (i.e. restaurants, attractions).

Tourism Industry Association of Nova Scotia (TIANS) a membership-based organization with primary roles including: advocacy on behalf of the industry; representation of tourism sectors and regions; communication with the industry and tourism education; and human resource development. Also acts as resource to the tourism industry on a wide range of issues, policies, and trends.

Tourist 1. someone who travels for pleasure. 2. a temporary visitor, staying for at least a day in the region, and travelling for a purpose classified as either: holiday (recreation, leisure, sport and visit to family, friends or relatives); business; official mission; convention; health reasons. In Nova Scotia, the term can refer to persons on same-day trips who travel more than 80k one way from their place of residence (excluding persons commuting to work).

Travel Agent/Agency a licensed, travel-product retailer that provides travel information, reservations and other forms of assistance to consumers, companies and groups in making travel arrangements (sometimes referred to as a retailer).

Travel Experience an activity that replaces goods and services, and addresses consumer demand for activities which stimulate and enhance creative capacities through travel.

Travel Trade a term describing the full range of organizations that operate as intermediaries in the travel and tourism industry; these typically include tour operators, wholesalers, receptive operators, and travel agents.

Travel Writers writers who specialize in writing about destinations and travel experiences for travel journals, magazines and newspapers.

Trends the general direction of the market over a specific period of time.

Unique Selling Propositions (USPs)

the unique characteristics and experiences of a travel product of package that are used to promote and sell it.

Visiting Friends and Relatives (VFR) acronym for visiting friends and relatives.

Vision a picture of a future, desired situation; a description of what tourism in the community could be like, at some point in the future — what types of products and services will be offered, what unique advantages and appeals the community will offer visitors. A vision should be realistic.

Wholesaler a company that operates as an intermediary between the travel product supplier and the retail travel agent in the marketplace, generally providing services such as information and reservations to travel agents. Tour operators, central reservation systems, online booking systems, representation companies, and sales agents are common examples of tourism wholesalers.
